

See Detroit as you've never seen it before....

Sign up for the Michigan Labor History Society's

LABOR HISTORY BUS TOUR

D E T R O I T

We'll visit

The five-and-dime store – known as the “Wal-Mart of its day” where more than a hundred young women, some as young as 16 – stopped work and occupied their store for six days in 1937 forcing management to give in to their demands.

The historic church where Walter Reuther is enshrined in a stained-glass window – the only church in the U.S. known to so honor a labor leader.

The factory where in 1913 hundreds of workers took part in the first automobile strike in the nation's history, led by a young woman who became an IWW organizer at the age of 18.

The recording studio where union musicians created the Motown sound that echoed around the globe, and where Martha Reeves – who later joined striking unionists to sing “Marchin’ in the Streets” got her start.

And we'll stop at many more places to hear stories that can inspire today's labor struggles with yesterday's victories.

SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 2016 | Leaving from UAW Local 22, 4300 Michigan Ave., Detroit

Join us for the MLHS annual meeting and tour orientation at 10 a.m. The bus departs promptly at 11 a.m. and returns by 1 p.m. Free parking on site.

The tour is free, but donations are welcome to help build the work of the MLHS.

Advance registration required due to limited capacity. To sign up, send your name, address, phone number, e-mail address, and number of guests to: Michlabor@aol.com no later than June 11. You'll receive a confirmation by e-mail.

MICHIGAN LABOR HISTORY SOCIETY
5401 Cass Ave., Detroit MI 48202
313-577-4009 / mlhs.wayne.edu / michlabor@aol.com